NEXT AUTO RACE
TO BE WORTH SEEING

It Will Not Be Held Until Territorial Highway Is Finished

An automobile race that is an automobile race is being advocated by several gasoline sports in the district. Those who made the trip by the territorial highway in the day of the auto race say that the road is not completed, and the race that is being talked of will probably not be pulled off before Christmas.

It was reported yesterday that there was some doubt as to the official time made in the race Tuesday by the winning car, it being reported that the time kept by the driver of that car was 35 minutes instead of 29, as figured by the committee at Douglas. As soon as the cars left Lowell the time of departure was telephoned to Douglas and in that way the official time was figured. Allowing for difference of time as recorded by different watches, the record lacks the finality of an official record.

The next race will probably be for a prize sufficiently large to interest the speed freaks, and there will be an entrance fee to guarantee a good field of starters. Whatever time was made Tuesday, it is certain that it will not stand as soon as the highway is completed. There are two bad breaks in the speedway now, and with these removed faster time will be made.

The highway has been oiled between Forest station and Douglas and the oiled portion is the fastest stretch on the road, according to J. J. Hoven, who was one of those who followed in the wake of the racers. The places to be filled in are at Forest station and Forest ranch.

Put Confidence in Nurse.
Very small experience of practice is needed to show that in serious illness the patient's friends generally ask the nurse if she thinks the doctor "really understands the case," and they are much influenced by her opinion and the manner in which she gives it.—London Hospital.

The Real Thing.
"Oh, Mary! Jim and Bill fought a duel over me!"
"How romantic! What happened?"
"It was terrible! I came into the room and those foolish boys were pointing big pistols at each other!"
"Pistols? Heavens! Were they loaded?"
"Not a bit. They were both sober!"

The antlered herd of Bisbee enjoyed a delightful dance at the Elks' home last night with their friends of the fair sex as guests. The dance was largely attended, as these invitation affairs are always looked forward to with interest and pleasurable anticipation.

Case is Dismissed.
The case of the three "bold bad pirates" the kindergartners who were taken into the toils of the law on the charge of sniping a purse from a residence last Sunday, were given a lecture by Judge Burdick yesterday afternoon and told to go home to their mamma. What might have been construed as a serious violation of the law if the defendants had been older was regarded by the court as "wrongdoing" for which the amiable is something found in the orchard. The purse has been located.

Candidate Comes.
Louis Meizer, of Phoenix, one of the candidates for the nomination for corporation commissioner, is in the city and will remain in the district all day. He visited Douglas in the course of a hurried tour of the southern part of the territory. He has not time to see many of the voters but to those whom he sees he is doing this office, not because he has a liking for official life, but because he knows something about railroad rates. He is one of the heaviest shippers in Arizona, his freight bills amounting to about $7,000 a month. He is one of the original members of the Maricopa Commercial club, organized with the sole purpose of effecting a reform in freight rates.

Terrier Saved Life.
A sagacious Irish terrier named Fynus averted a tragedy the other night at Belmont. About one o'clock in the morning the terrier awoke his mistress, and by barking and pulling at her dress led her to where a Miss Jones, a visitor, was sleeping. There was a strong smell of gas in the room, and the girl was found lying unconscious. It was discovered that there was a leak in the gas pipe. But for the dog's warning, Miss Jones would in all probability have been suffocated. As it was, she soon recovered.

On the Death of Franklin.
Franklin is dead! Restored to the bosom of the Divinity is that genius which gave freedom to America, and raved forth torrents of light upon Europe. The sage whom two worlds claim—the man whom the history of empires and the history of science alike contend for—occupied, it cannot be denied, a lofty rank among his species. Long enough have political cabots signified the death of those who were great in their funeral eulogies only. Long enough has the etiquette of courts proscribed hypocritical mourning. For their benefactors only should nations assume the emblem of grief; and the representatives of nations should commend only the heroes of humanity to public veneration.—Comte De Mirabeau.

Mr. Candidate.

HIGHWAY GOOD BUT NOT YET COMPLETED

Territorial Link Requires Further Work to Make It Perfect

While the territorial highway is a fine road, it is not completed by any means and considerable work will yet have to be expended upon it, according to Mark P. John, who was the only starter representing the Warren district in the road race on Tuesday.

Mr. John states that he had no trouble on the trip and that the road as it is now is a great improvement on anything in this part of the country, but that there are spots that still require work. "This is mostly the case where washouts occurred during the rains that came late in the season and did considerable damage.

The celebration of the completion of the highway was timely, even if the road work was only practically finished of fully completed. It will "boost the game" for good roads, the general opinion voiced, and that it is a matter that requires all possible assistance here in Arizona at this time. Later, it is probable that other road races will be held and it is the opinion of those who traversed the stretch of highway on Tuesday that when such races are held much better time can be made since conditions will be better than for fast driving than they now are, and minutes can be clipped from the record.

The new highway link draws Douglas closer to Bisbee, and will make more intimate the relations between these two neighbors.

Not His Habit.
One of the best things W. S. Gilbert said was about Rutland Barrington, whose portly, uncouth humor was such an inimitable addition to the old D'Oyly Carte company. During the premiere of a new opera Gilbert was in a box with a party of friends, one of whom turned to him excitedly and said: "Oh, Mr. Gilbert Rutland Barrington is singing in tune." "Oh, don't worry about that," said Gilbert "it's only first-night nervousness he'll get over it."

The Height of Happiness at His Age.
In what pleasure we find our greatest enjoyment depends much on our age; at one time of life we may like one thing best, at another time another. Here was a small boy rolling along the sidewalk in one of those hand-operated wagons which he was propelling with one hand, while in the other he held an ice cream cone which he was eating as he rolled. He was probably the highest attainable happiness at his age.

"Queer English."
These specimens of "queer English" are given by a writer in the Cleveland Review and Observer: "I heard a man talking of a political candidate the other day say: 'If he only takes the stand when he runs he'll have a "walkover" and: "A Galvestonian who has a mule for sale, hearing that a friend in Houston wanted to buy a mule, telegraphed him: 'Dear friend—if you are looking for a No. 1 mule, don't forget me.'"

A Change for the Better.
The Fat Lady—"The fattest man is going to leave this bunch and go out with a mule." The Glass Eater—"And what part is he going to play?" The Fat Lady—"Oh, he is going to be the 'deep dyed villain'."
